NYC Lifestyle

Hello November!

As we make our way into November, now is a great time to get involved in community events, sign up for a class, learn a new skill and celebrate our veterans. Today's edition of NYC Lifestyle includes some of the very best activities happening around town this week.

Macro Photography with Canon | November 9

Have you ever wanted to get into 'larger than life' photography? Now is your chance! On November 9, Canon Product Educator Cassandra Caldwell will host a free, macro photography class through Foto Care. Macro photography captures the details that sometimes the eye cannot, creating unique and surprising images. Click here to register for the online event.

The Fifth AIM Biennial | November 10

The Bronx Museum of Art is gearing up for the installation of Bronx Calling: The Fifth AIM Biennial on November 10. The exhibit will showcase work from members of the AIM Fellowship, an artist development program at the museum. Selected artworks serve as commentary on world affairs, the environment and the American identity. The museum is free for visitors.

Urban Fruit Tree Care | November 9

GrowNYC will host a virtual workshop on Urban Fruit Tree Care on November 9. Led by Cristian Gilces, an Urban Agriculturalist and senior in John Browne High School's agriculture program, the workshop will focus on fertilization, pollination, pruning and best species for growing fruit trees in containers versus in the ground. Register for the free, online event here.

2021 Veterans Day Parade | November 11

Honor our Veterans and their families by attending the New York Veterans Day Parade on November 11. Hosted by the United War Veterans Council, this will be the 102nd annual Veterans Day celebration. The procession begins on 25th Street, traveling north on Fifth Avenue up to 40th Street. Stop by between 12:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. to witness the marching bands, vintage cars, floats and more. Hello November!

Uptown Night Market | November 11

Uptown Night Market, an open-air food, drink, and music festival in Harlem, is hosting its final event of the year on November 11. The festival features local vendors from Harlem and the surrounding New York City area. This free event celebrates the city of New York, while promoting local small businesses.

Tea Meditation at Chinatown Soup | November 14

Chinatown Soup, a creative community, studio and café, invites you to join 'Tea Sit: Meditate + Learn,' on November 14. Timothy Hsu, the community's creative director, will discuss the history of tea, the physical and mental benefits of tea and ways to incorporate tea into your life as a positive practice. Seats for the event can be reserved here.

Kahkow Cookie Class | November 12-14

Kahkow USA will host an in-person Chocolate Chip Cookie making class November 12-14 at the chocolate factory's Williamsburg, Brooklyn headquarters. Led by one of the master chocolatiers, guests will learn how to make cookies from scratch using high-end Dominican chocolate. Tickets can be purchased here.

Floral Design Class | November 14

Learn the art of flower design from Monica Nelson, author of Edible Flowers, on November 14 at Il Fiorista on West 26th Street in Manhattan. Flowers will be provided to make each arrangement, along with a signed copy of Edible Flowers. Purchase a ticket here and add flower arrangements to your list of skills!
